When the kebab shops and rollerdiscos of Dalston get too much, jangle the doorbell at Fee Fee la Fou HQ for a brief escape into wonderland. A newly opened island of colour on Bradbury Street, this is quite a find. It could go one of two ways – hideously zeitgeist or endearingly quirky; fortunately it's the latter.

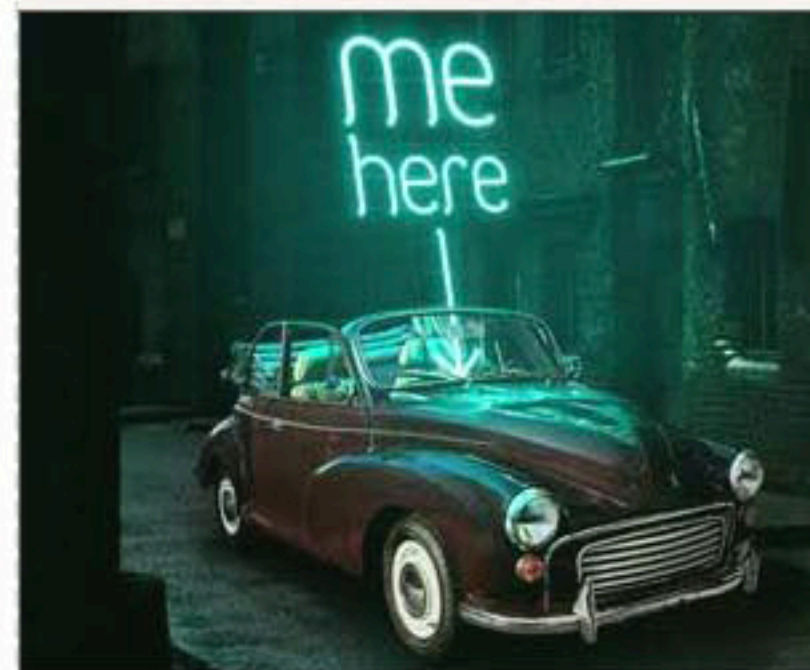

Essentially, FFLFHQ is a curiosity shop full of things made by artists and designers, lovingly curated and presented by shopkeeper and artist in residence, Fee Fee la Fou. Inspired by 'The Shop' – Tracy Emin and Sarah Lucas's project
